ATTACKED GIRL ON TOWN STREET

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hankey attacked by Unknown Man but Made her Escape. No Clue to Assailant's Identity.

Marie Hankey, the thirteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hankey, of Railroad street, was attacked by an unknown man near the Washington House livery stable Wednesday evening. She managed to free herself from his grasp and reached her home in safety where she broke down completely and for a time was in a highly nervous state. The man was chased for some distance but escaped without his identity becoming known.

With many other children the little Hankey girl was attracted by the free soda water offer at the People's Drug Store and took two brothers along. The one was riding in a go-cart and the sister was pushing it as they neared the Washington House stable on their return home.

Suddenly, and without any warning, a man jumped from the shadows, and caught the girl about the shoulders. She screamed, used all her force and freed herself and then with her brothers hurried home as rapidly as possible where they all became hysterical. It was quite a while before the children could be quieted sufficiently to be able to tell their story.

When the little girl got free from her assailant's grasp and continued to scream he became alarmed and fled into the alleyway. The cries were heard and pursuit was given by a party whose name has not been learned, but the alleys in that part of town have many little passages between the various buildings and the chase was unsuccessful.

The girl told her parents, when she became somewhat composed, that she was sure the man who attacked her was a negro. About the time of the occurrence, however, people on Carlisle street saw a white man come running out of the alley between the Haines shoe store and Hop Lee's laundry and it is thought that, in her excitement and the darkness of the alley, she may have made a mistake. There is consequently no clue whatever to the fellow's identity.

FLITTING ACCIDENT

Several persons were hurt in an accident which occurred near New Oxford Tuesday afternoon. John Evans, of Hampton, was accompanying a flitting and had the following persons in a covered wagon: Mrs. Ernest Gross and children, of near Hampton, Mrs. William Gross, near New Oxford, and Ervin Yohe, of Hampton. In attempting to pass the large teams on the road the covered wagon was overturned, but fortunately the horse attached to the wagon was very quiet, and it is perhaps, owing to this fact that the occupants of the wagon were not fatally injured, for when the concern was overturned they were all huddled in a heap among some household articles and they were unable to extricate themselves. Mrs. Ernest Gross was the most seriously injured, receiving a cut into the bone from the top of her head down over the forehead to the nose, requiring about 15 stitches to close, besides other minor injuries. Mrs. William Gross received a number of bruises about the body; Ervin Yohe was slightly hurt, but the other occupants escaped injury.

ALL PLEASED

Walter's-Wizard Has First Show since Improvements were Made.

The audience at Walter's-Wizard on Wednesday evening was delighted with the appearance of the house since the improvements have been completed. "Freckles" was the first attraction there since this work was done and the theatre little resembles its old gloomy appearance. The walls and ceiling have been decorated in light colors; the four boxes add much to the character of the building; floor mats are a much needed improvement while the lighting system and other details have not been forgotten. Those who prophesied that the boxes would never be used saw all four of them occupied for Wednesday evening's attraction. "Freckles" pleased the audience which only half filled the house. The cast generally was good and the attraction deserved better patronage.

FIRST WORD FROM FLOOD DISTRICT

To be separated from her husband for two and a half days, not knowing whether or not he had been drowned in the floods of last week, was the experience of Mrs. Roy Deardorff, of Hamilton, Ohio, who has written an interesting letter to her mother-in-law Mrs. Adam Deardorff, of Cashtown. The letter is the first received in this county from the flood district. Mr. Deardorff is employed as assistant cashier in a large lock factory at Hamilton, the factory being situated on the opposite side of the river from his home. The letter was written Thursday evening March 27 two days after the flood. It is in part as follows: Dear Mother and All:—

We are saved. About five o'clock this evening we got word from Roy that he, too, is saved. Just think, Mother, for two days I did not know whether brother John and Roy were alive or not but, thank God, they are all right and, as far as I know, Roy will be able to come home shortly. They are getting provisions from Cincinnati and we are getting food from Oxford.

Four bridges went down. I saw the Main Street and railroad bridges go but the others went down at night. When the Main street bridge went it took all of our electric wires, telephone wires, gas and water pipes. I have a lamp and have just gotten a gasoline stove and, as I have plenty to eat, there is no cause for worry.

The girls from Shelbyville are with me and so is Mrs. Cleven. Dr. Cleven is on the other side and all right. We are getting word from our friends by having them hold up messages on the other side of the river and then we read them with field glasses.

Roy left Tuesday morning and I never knew until five o'clock this, Thursday, evening that he was saved, so you can imagine what I have gone through. I haven't had any sleep for two nights but am hoping to sleep tonight. The worst of all was last night we got word at mid-night that a dam had broken and to flee for our lives. I took a blanket and some food and after walking two and a half miles and sleeping in a barn we found that it was all a mistake. We expected a 32 foot rise in the river after having almost ruined our town.

Our home was not damaged but the flood came to within two squares of the house. Two hundred houses, my brother's being among them, were destroyed and many of the men are bankrupt. I believe we will have vacation here for several months until things are fixed in some sort of shape.

How I wish you people were here, especially at night as it is so dreary and dark. I hope all will be well and don't worry because we should be so thankful that we are saved. Write to us soon.

A postal received from Rev. N. S. Wolf, at Dayton, by Mrs. J. A. Tawney says "Most of our furniture on the first floor was ruined but we are fortunate compared with many thousands". Mr. Wolf had a large library and it is believed by relatives here that it was likely ruined in the floods last week. The family had intended coming to Gettysburg this week but on account of conditions at Dayton their departure for this place is indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Deardorff, of Mummasburg, have received word from their son, Cletus C. Deardorff, who is employed by the National Cash Register Company that he is in safety.

ANOTHER PLAN

Captain R. W. Douthat who recently advanced the scheme of having the Confederate and Union veterans participate in a hand shaking ceremony here says further:

At least half of the old soldiers who go to Gettysburg for the celebration cannot take part in any maneuvers on account of infirmities. There will not be 20,000 Confederate soldiers at Gettysburg, July 1-4, 1913, and therefore we would not need four miles to each line. We can form 40 columns of 500 men each, 20 columns for Confederates and 20 for Union soldiers in the space of 1000 feet square.

FATAL RESULT OF OPERATION

Daniel Bair, the farmer of near East Berlin who was seriously injured by the premature explosion of dynamite on last Thanksgiving day, died Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock at the home of his son, Jacob L. Bair. Death was due to blood poisoning developing after an operation several weeks ago. The operation was performed at the York hospital.

He was sixty-seven years old and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Maria Harbold, Bermudian, and seven children—Mrs. Jonas Smith, Lemoyne; I. N. Bair, Bolder, Col.; Dr. J. H. Bair, Philadelphia; Mrs. H. W. Brougher, Denver, Col.; Mrs. Milton Rodkey, of near East Berlin; Mrs. George Ziegler, of Lemoyne, and the son, Jacob L. Bair, with whom he resided.

The funeral will be held from the house Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. Further services and interment at the Voltaire church. Rev. Harry Loose will officiate, assisted by Rev. Reuben Bair.

Mr. Bair had his face badly injured at the time of the explosion, and it was not thought at that time that he would live. He gradually recovered from the injuries and was taken to the York hospital to have an operation performed on his lips, which were almost torn away by the explosion. He was in good health when taken to the hospital, and it was thought that an operation might bring about a growth of flesh and skin on the lips. Blood poisoning followed the operation and Mr. Bair was taken home last week.

RUNAWAY TRAIN

It happened the other day; it happened in New Oxford; it happened on the W. M. R. R., as usual. What? Well, don't get excited; it wasn't much, but still it was amusing, and it might have been. All this is from the New Oxford Item, which continues:

The 24-hour freight train to the West was standing still—nearly all trains stand still on the W. M. The engineer had left his cabin, and so had the fireman, for they were tired of the bumps and rocking. Together they engaged in conversation. Noisily the engine hissed and puffed, and no one gave it much attention; but therein danger lurked.

Slowly, and without warning, the engine's ponderous wheels began to revolve; now faster, and faster. Men shouted, children screamed, and women fainted, for directly in its path, near Gettysburg, the Evening Special was tearing down the track at an awful speed, with its precious burdens. Nimble of foot and quick to grasp the situation, the engineer sped after the departing engine. All eyes watched the race for lives. Onward rushed the engineer. Ah! he caught it, and soon the locomotive was stopped. Glowing tribute was showered upon the hero as he descended from his cabin, but the man accepted it modestly, as do all true heroes.

The engineer had hardly resumed his place in the conversation when the engine again started away. Once more a race, as thrilling as the first, occurred. Again he caught the engine and all was safe. And it did so happen even once after that. Then, tired of running after his charge, the engineer gathered several big stones and placed them beneath the wheels, and one and all felt much relieved. When the time was come, the stones were removed and the train departed. So they do things on the W. M. What if—but!

RABID HOG

Daniel Pifer, of Latimore township, lost a hog by death from hydrophobia recently. About three weeks ago a strange dog followed Mr. Pifer home and bit the hog. He shot the dog and then waited for developments for rabies in the hog. Thursday was the twenty-first day from the time the animal was bitten and it began frothing at the mouth and biting at everything in the pen and died the next morning.

AGED MAN LOST

On Way from New Oxford to Philadelphia Became Confused.

While on his way from New Oxford to Philadelphia, William Wagner, an aged man becoming confused got off the train at York. The police there found him wandering about the street, sent him to relatives in Hanover. He is now visiting his sister, Mrs. Emanuel Wolford, of that place. He left New Oxford on Tuesday morning, purchasing a ticket for Philadelphia. He was transferred to the N. C. R. at Hanover, and becoming confused forgot about his ticket, and then told the conductor he wanted to go to Lancaster, paying his fare to the conductor. The helpless old man left the train at York, thinking he reached Philadelphia. A policeman ran across him Tuesday night and took the old man to police headquarters, where he told Sergeant Hise he wanted to go to his sister in Hanover. The officer accordingly put him on the 11 o'clock car. When he reached Hanover he was cared for by Burgess Shely at the Central hotel over night, and next morning was taken to his sister's home, where he will remain until a relative in Philadelphia comes for him.

AID THE KIDNEYS

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a tested remedy is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in kidney trouble over 50 years, have been tested in thousands of cases.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases act now. Drops or Bright's disease may set in and make neglect dangerous. Read this Gettysburg testimony:

W. B. Flaharty, 311 Washington street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me and I willingly recommend them. I was injured some years ago and at that time my kidneys were affected. I got various remedies, but nothing seemed to do me any good until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly cured me. Whenever I have taken them since they have done good work."

ARREST TWO FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Philadelphia Bank Cashier and Girl Accused.

Philadelphia, April 3.—Warrants were issued by Magistrate McFarland for the arrest of Charles L. Kolb, the cashier of the Textile National bank, and Miss Mary B. V. Sturgis, aged twenty-six, a former stenographer and private secretary of Herbert S. Ashmore, the president of the Melbourne Mills.

The warrants for Kolb charge him with conspiring to cheat and defraud, while Miss Sturgis is charged with embezzlement. It is said that the amount of money involved in the alleged transaction is between $15,000 and $20,000.

Ashmore was compelled to be out of town a great deal and left his affairs in the hands of the young woman. He claims he signed checks in blanks and she misappropriated funds by misusing these checks.

FILLING AMBASSADORSHIP

State of Other Important Appointments Nearly Complete.

Washington, April 3.—The atmosphere of uncertainty which has surrounded appointments to the big national and foreign posts under the Democratic administration clarified slightly, with the result that the ambassadorship to France was almost certainly filled, the name of an ambassador to Germany was likely to be announced within a day or so, and the collectorship of the port of New York rested between two candidates.

Following is an unofficial list of the names that are likely to be sent to congress for confirmation when it convenes next week:

First assistant secretary of state—Former Governor Joseph Osborn, of Wyoming.

PRINCESS LOUISE LOSES

King Leopold's Daughter's Claim to $5,000,000 Estate Rejected.

Brussels, Belgium, April 3.—Princess Louise, oldest daughter of the late King Leopold of Belgium, known as the greatest spender among the princesses of Europe, lost her suit for $5,000,000 left by Leopold.

The court handed down a decision rejecting the claims of Princess Louise and ordered that the large estate left by King Leopold revert to the state.

King Leopold and Princess Louise were estranged at the time of the king's death because of Louise's escapades. A few years after her marriage, Princess Louise eloped with Lieutenant Matschieh, of the Austrian army, and lived openly with him without taking the trouble to get a divorce. Once she entered a Paris cafe with her coachman and sat at a table drinking with him. Leopold tried to have his daughter declared insane, but failed. The princess' debts, according to her thirty-two lawyers, amount to $5,000,000.

Miss Wilson Watches Gunners. Norfolk, Va., April 3.—Miss Eleanor Wilson, the president's youngest daughter, with Secretary Daniels and a party of other cabinet officials and their wives saw the Atlantic fleet at target practice on the southern dirt grounds off Cape Henry.

CAIRO PREPARING FOR FLOOD CREST

Water at Standstill Gives Time to Strengthen Levees.

SHAWNEETOWN SUBMERGED

Chicago, April 3.—Cairo had a little respite from its flood scare, due to the fact that the Ohio river waters were at a standstill for midnight. The reading at that hour was 54. The crest of the Ohio river flood is yet to come.

One cause for the standstill was said to be the vast volume of water now flowing into the lowlands of the drainage district following a levee break there.

It was reported that the water is flowing over the Big Four tracks in that section for a distance of three-fourths of a mile. Hope is held out that the waters may continue to recede, that the city may be better prepared for the high water's coming.

The south levee at Shawneetown was blown out with dynamite to reduce the pressure of the water and save lives at Cairo and other river points. No lives were lost. The damage is about $100,000.

Shawneetown was twelve feet deep in water, and the levee was awash in places. As soon as the water in the levee had equalled the stage of the Ohio outside, the militia permitted the telephone girls and the citizens' committee, consisting largely of business men, to enter. The telephone exchange was built taking floods into account, and the girls in the exchange are above any possible water. They keep Shawneetown, the oldest existing city in Illinois, in touch with the rest of the world.

Of the 2000 inhabitants of the town 600 are in tents on the ridge a mile back from the city. A detachment of the militia is in charge. The rest of the people have gone elsewhere. This is the first time the water has been inside the Shawneetown levee since the dike broke April 3, 1898, and thirty lives were lost.

Kentucky Towns Submerged.

Louisville, Ky., April 3.—A large warehouse of the Rugby Distillery company, in the western end of the city, weakened by the flood, collapsed, releasing to the river about 5000 barrels of whisky, valued at a quarter of a million dollars.

The threatened collapse of weakened buildings was the only source of anxiety, as the vessel of the flood had passed Louisville with a stage of slightly more than forty-five feet.

Lower river points continued to experience rising water. At Paducah the water is standing more than two feet deep in the lower sections. Henderson and Owensboro were taxed with the care of hourly increasing refugees. At Wickliffe, where there are more than 3000 refugees from Hickman, Cairo and Columbus, the shelter situation was becoming acute.

Refugees are rushing to the hill back of Hickman in large numbers, while hundreds of laborers are at work sandbagging the levee to keep out the threatening Mississippi. Water stands three to four feet deep in the deserted residences and business houses of Columbus.

A great deal of difficulty is being experienced in keeping negro laborers at work at the levees. In many instances it has been necessary to keep them in Hickman at the point of a rifle. "Rube" Waddell, the base ball player, here with his team, kept several negro prisoners in a poolroom all night.

GETS 15 YEARS FOR ARSON

Pleaded Guilty to Paying Man to Set Fire to His Shop.

New York, April 3.—Max Kleinberg, formerly of Detroit, was sentenced to Sing Sing for a maximum term of fifteen years for arson.

Kleinberg pleaded guilty to an indictment found against him on the testimony of "Izzy the Painter," the self confessed firebug, who said that Kleinberg employed him to set fire to his tailor shop.

Two more insurance men were indicted in connection with "arson trust" operations. They were J. L. Lebowitz and Leo Deutsch, the former a member of a fire insurance adjusting firm and the latter an employee. The indictment against them also was based on the testimony of "Izzy the Painter." The defendants were released on $2500 bonds each after pleading not guilty.

Silk Mill Strike Settled.

Hazleton, Pa., April 3.—The strike of the 1200 operatives at the Duplan silk mill was settled through the Textile Workers' union and the plant will resume on Monday. The employees have been granted a wage advance ranging from 10 to 30 per cent for different grades of work and a reduction in hours from fifty-eight to fifty-five hours per week.

Dr. Schaeffer Reappointed.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 3.—Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, of Lancaster, was reappointed superintendent of public instruction for the term of four years. Dr. Schaeffer was first appointed to the place in 1892.

Army Man's Wife a Suicide.

Omaha, Neb., April 3.—A woman who jumped from the Douglas street bridge into the Missouri river on Monday night and was drowned, has been identified as Mrs. Greta Chase Hull. She was the wife of Colonel J. A. Hull, of the United States Army. Colonel Hull recently was ordered to the Philippines. It is supposed that grief at separation from her husband had prompted Mrs. Hull's act.

BRITISH TO STOP FEEDING BY FORCE

Commons Pass Bill Aimed at Hunger Strikes.

MRS. PANKHURST ON TRIAL

Home Secretary Pleads For Passage of Measure to Release Suffragette Prisoners Who Refuse to Eat in Jail.

London, April 3.—In discussing a bill to circumvent "hunger strikes" by suffragettes, Reginald McKenna, the British home secretary, urged the house of commons not to attach too much importance to the "terrible tales of suffering caused by forcible feeding." After much opposition the bill passed second reading.

"Publicity," said Mr. McKenna, "is the keynote of the militant suffragette propaganda. Alternately the suffragettes shock the public by the violence of their outrages and attempt to enlist sympathy by publishing tales of their sufferings in prison. But these prisoners have declared war against society, and the government is responsible for law and order."

Mr. McKenna said that the proposed law, which provides for the temporary conditional discharge of prisoners whose detention is undesirable on account of ill health, would give him a power which would make forcible feeding unnecessary.

The home secretary explained that under the existing law only three courses are open to those responsible for prisoners who begin a hunger strike. They must be either released forcibly fed or food placed in their cells and the prisoners allowed to die if they do not take it.

"At the present time," said the home secretary, "we have no power to release prisoners without remitting their sentences altogether. If the new bill is passed we can release on ticket of leave prisoners whose health is suffering for want of food."

James Keir Hardie, the Labor leader, moved the rejection of the bill, declaring that the government by breaking its pledges to the women was self responsible for the militant campaign.

Lord Robert Cecil, Unionist, opposed the bill on the ground that it would not get rid of forcible feeding. Asked what his remedy would be, Lord Robert replied "deportation," but when questioned as to how he would prevent the women from going on hunger strikes during the voyage he gave no explanation.

Sir Gilbert Parker supported the bill because he wished the home secretary to be given sufficient power to enforce sentences against lawbreaking suffragettes.

Mr. Hardie's motion to reject the bill was defeated by a vote of 335 to 98, and the second reading of the measure was then carried, 296 to 43.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, from the prisoners' enclosure at the Old Bailey court house, pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of having "counseled certain persons whose names are not known to place feloniously and maliciously certain gunpowder and other explosive substances with intent thereby to damage" David Lloyd George's country house at Walton Heath.

The suffragette leader, frail looking and pale, found the courtroom crowded with women wearing the suffragette colors. She turned composedly to Sir Charles Montague Lush, the judge and announced "I will defend myself." A table was assigned to her for her papers.

Archibald H. Bodkin, counsel for the treasury, followed the argument used during the preliminary hearing in the police court. He said it was not suggested that Mrs. Pankhurst was present at the time the bomb was placed in Lloyd George's house, but the prosecution charged that she was an accessory before the fact.

Yale Student Killed.

New Rochelle, N. Y., April 3.—Edward Fogarty, of Ansonia, Conn., a student in the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale, and a college athlete was killed here by a fall and electric shock. Donald E. Brockett, a student from Kansas City, was badly burned. The two men were taking measurements of a bridge over the New Haven railroad, to be used in a damage suit. Their steel measuring tape touched a charged feed wire and the shock threw Fogarty to the tracks thirty feet below.

Man and Wife Fight With Knives.

Wilmington, Del., April 3.—Lafayette street, known as "bloodfield," was the scene of another bloody encounter when Purnell Handy, twenty-eight years old, and his wife, Eleanor Handy, armed with knives, fought a duel. When they were separated the wife was found to have been stabbed in the face, leg and arm, while Handy was wounded in several places.

"Unsinkable" Ship Sails.

Sourhampton, Eng., April 3.—The double-ended ocean express steamer Olympic, a sister ship to the ill-fated Titanic, sailed for New York with a passenger list which includes many notables. The White star line officials declare that the Olympic is practically unsinkable. She has two hulls, the inner "skin" three feet from the outer.

Strangles Baby Sister Accidentally.

New York, April 3.—Five-year-old Adeline Baker, of 148 Prospect avenue, Brooklyn, accidentally strangled her five-months-old sister Margaret to death. Margaret was in her carriage and Mrs. Baker told Adeline to look out for her. Adeline choked the baby under the chin to amuse her. The little one liked it. Adeline caught hold of Margaret's throat and gave it a playful twist, and the baby fell back in a faint. When a doctor arrived Margaret was dead.

POSTMASTER SHORT

Berwick, Pa., April 3.—W. M. Calver, a United States postoffice inspector, said that the accounts of Charles Brightbault, postmaster at Drums, a fourth class office, near here, is short $200 in his accounts. Brightbault is missing and is said to be in Canada.

Other alleged shortages charged to Brightbault are $10,000, said to have been raised on false notes, and an alleged shortage in his accounts as collector of Luzerne county taxes.

PLACE RADIUM IN MAN'S BODY

Philadelphia, April 3.—A silver tube containing twenty milligrams of radium, worth $2500, which has been inserted in a cancer on the liver of Malcolm Watson in the Methodist hospital, is expected gradually to kill the growth.

Dr. G. J. Schwartz, a Pittsburgh surgeon, performed the operation before a number of well known surgeons. Locally applied cocaine was the only anaesthesia used.

PENNA. IN LINE FOR DIRECT SENATOR VOTE

Senate Adopts Resolution Ratifying Amendment.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 3.—Pennsylvania joined the ranks of the states ratifying the proposed amendment to the United States constitution providing for the direct election of United States senators, being the thirty-fifth to fall in line.

The joint resolution ratifying the proposed amendment, which passed the house by a vote of 193 to 3, several weeks ago, was passed by the state senate by a vote of 41 to 9. Senator McNichol, of Philadelphia, did not vote.

The vote of only one more state is needed to complete the ratification by three-fourths of the states necessary to put the amendment into effect.

The resolution was called up by Senator Herbst, and without a word of debate was put on final passage. Some senators did not realize what was before the senate. When they learned that it was the question of direct election of senators they hastened to be sure they were recorded for the resolution.

Senator McNichol, of Philadelphia, introduced a bill providing for the necessary machinery for the election of United States senators. It provides that senators shall be elected in the same manner as the governor. The governor shall have the right to fill vacancies until the following general election.

If the amendment is ratified Pennsylvania voters will choose a United States senator in the fall of 1914 to succeed Senator Penrose.

IMPOSING FUNERAL OF KING

The procession was of great length, including a striking mingling of many eastern and western nationalities. The streets were lined with men and women. The men uncovered and the women wept hysterically.

The royal princes of Greece and the missions representing the courts of Europe and the states of the American hemisphere joined with deputations from European Turkey, from the islands of the Aegean sea and from Asia Minor, each in distinctive national dress.

Mrs. Wilson Visits U. S. Employes.

Washington, April 3.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson's interest in the welfare of employes in the government departments, especially the girl workers, was evinced when she visited the bureau of engraving and printing, which employs a large number of young women. Mrs. Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, president of the woman's welfare department of the National Civic Federation, inspected all the departments of the bureau and was much interested in the making of paper money and postage stamps.

Five Forts Fall to Montenegrins.

Vienna, Austria, April 3.—The Montenegrin army besieging the fortress of Scutari captured five of the forts defending Tarabosch, and the fall of two others is expected at any hour, according to a dispatch from Cetinje. The correspondent says that Scutari is burning in several places. The bombardment of Scutari is reported to have ceased, as the Montenegrin besiegers are awaiting the arrival of reinforcements.

That Cat's Tail

An Illustrative Story Told by
Abraham Lincoln

By ARNOLD ROBINSON

If any one should assert that Abraham Lincoln was the greatest American humorist he would have much with which to enforce his argument. Mr. Lincoln's humor, judged as to its effectiveness in concise illustration, certainly stands very high. For instance, his reply to the British ambassador, Lord Lyons, when that functionary announced in a formal manner that the Prince of Wales (afterward Edward VII.) was about to be married, enunciated the breaking down of a reverence the world had always felt for royal personages before republican simplicity. When the ambassador, who was a bachelor, had made his announcement and awaited the formal reply of the head of the American nation, Mr. Lincoln, with a twinkle in his eye, said:

The story given below contains one of Mr. Lincoln's remarkable efforts at concise illustration. At any rate, it served a purpose—an avoidance of entering upon an untimely explanation. It was this power that rendered Mr. Lincoln such an effective public speaker, for there is no field wherein a lengthy explanation of it is so effective as that of political oratory.

The rise of Mr. Lincoln to his eminent position as director of the nation in the great struggle of 1861-65 was very sudden. Only two years before his election a gentleman stood talking with the clerk of a hotel in Springfield, Ill., when the latter said:

"Do you see that tall, lean man sitting over there reading a newspaper? That man is going to be the next president of the United States."

The remark was doubtless the result of that local pride which leads one to predict a career for a fellow citizen. For Abraham Lincoln was nominated unexpectedly. However, the man's attention having been drawn to Mr. Lincoln, he remembered him, and it is not likely that the next president was remarkably prominent, for the same person a few months later thus describes another view of him. The former saw a transparency set up on a church fence announcing that a lecture on inventors and inventions would be delivered that evening for the benefit of the church by A. Lincoln.

Remembering what the hotel clerk had said about Mr. Lincoln, the man went to hear the lecture and thus describes the scene: "The lecture room was a dingy, drafty loft. There were forty or fifty persons in the body of the house scattered about and looking exceedingly uncomfortable. At the end of the hall was a rickety deal table on which stood two candles and leaning on this table on his long thin arm, reading occasionally from a pile of manuscript, was the lecturer."

When Mr. Lincoln was nominated for the presidency one of his old chums called among a host of others to offer his congratulations. He addressed the future president as Abe, and Mr. Lincoln called him Jim.

"See here, Abe," said Jim, "I can't see how you figure this thing out. When you and me was Whigs together you was always happy when you was fightin' Steve Douglas. What I want to know is how you got in with them abolitionists."

Others, including reporters, being present, Mr. Lincoln had the best of reasons for not making a reply. He smiled good naturedly and tried to put the man off, but he was not to be put off. Again he demanded an explanation.

"Well," said Mr. Lincoln, "it was like the boy and the tanner. A country boy concluded to go to the city and make something great of himself. He walked all day and at evening reached the outskirts of a small country town. The first building he came across was a tannery, and through a hole in the door projected the tail of a cat that was used as a lathestring. The boy stopped and looked at it with interest and curiosity depicted in every feature. Just then the tanner happened to come out through another door and, seeing the boy standing there wondering, asked:

"What is it, boy? Do you want anything?" "No," replied the boy, "I don't want anything. I was wonderin' how that goldarned cat got through that hole and what he went in for."

There was a laugh in which Jim joined, and he went away far better satisfied than if his old friend had given in detail a statement of his reasons for "joining the abolitionists."

But two years elapsed between the first and last of these pictures of the great emancipator, and a few months later still Mr. Lincoln had entered upon the work of carrying the country through perhaps the most gigantic struggle the world has ever seen.

And who can estimate the value of the faculty just illustrated in standing off thousands of persons who beset the president desirous to know what he was going to do, why he did this and why that, while the harassed man was enduring the awful responsibility that rested upon him?

It was said that during the most discouraging period of the struggle, when it seemed that the whole governmental structure was about to break down, Mr. Lincoln was elided for giving vent to his humor at such a time. "If I can't find the relief it gives me," he replied, "I shall go mad."

Nothing of worth or weight can be achieved with half a mind, with a faint heart and with a lame endeavor. — Isaac Barrow

ARE SENTENCED

Three Given Jail Terms and Fined $500 Each.

Philadelphia, April 3.—Henry Clay, former director of public safety, and John R. Wiggins and Willard H. Walls, members of the John R. Wiggins company, contractors, were sentenced to prison for conspiring to defraud the city, a charge on which they were convicted Feb. 1.

Judge C. B. Staples handed down an opinion, concurred in by Judges Suizberger and McMichael, discharging the rule for a new trial.

The defendants presented themselves at the bar of the court and were sentenced to pay fines of $500 each and to undergo separate and solitary confinement in the eastern penitentiary for not less than eighteen months nor more than two years each.

Counsel for the three men at once gave notice of their intention to appeal to the superior court, the appeal to act as a supersedeas and prevent the immediate execution of the sentence of the court. Judge Staples allowed them to renew their bail in the sum of $10,000 each.

No intimation was given of when the superior court will act on the appeal. It is generally understood that the convicted men are prepared to carry their appeal to the supreme court, if necessary, and lawyers predicted that at least two years will elapse before they begin their penitentiary terms, even if every appeal should fail.

To Be Buried in Hartford.
New York, April 3.—Funeral services in this country for J. Pierpont Morgan will be held in New York at St. George's Protestant Episcopal church.

Interment will be in Cedar Hill cemetery, Hartford, Conn., Mr. Morgan's birthplace. The dates will be decided later.

U. S. TO RECOGNIZE CHINA

Secretary Bryan to Issue Statement in a Few Days.

Washington, April 3.—Secretary of State Bryan announced that a definite statement of this administration's attitude toward the republic of China will be issued by him in a day or two.

It was expected at the White House that the statement would be issued at once, but at the eleventh hour Mr. Bryan changed his mind.

On high authority it was learned that the statement will announce the formal recognition of the Chinese government by the United States. The statement will probably be issued before April 7, on which date the Chinese assembly meets to elect a president for a regular term.

Lead and the Teeth.

A tendency of the teeth and gums to absorb lead has been observed by Viktor Hünz, a German dentist, among the workers in an accumulator factory. The teeth all had much tartar, and that scraped from the teeth of one man affected with anemia and other symptoms of poisoning was found by analysis to contain about one-half of 1 per cent of metallic lead. Extracting the seventeen teeth still retained by this man, the metallic lead in the crowns was shown to be 0.038 per cent and 0.033 per cent in the roots—sufficient to give continuous lead intoxication. The tartar was removed from the teeth of the other workers, and this was followed by marked improvement in the condition of gums and general health.

Three Cardinals Attend Meeting.

Washington, April 3.—Cardinals Gibbons, Farley and O'Connell and a number of archbishops attended the meeting here of trustees of the Catholic university, which authorized construction of several additional buildings at the university. The archbishops also heard reports of the work of the Catholic Colonization society.

SELLS HOMESTEAD

After having been in possession of the Neely name for a century the old homestead in Huntingdon township changed owners on Tuesday when Thomas G. Neely transferred the deed to his son-in-law, Dr. E. W. Cashman. On April 4, 1813, Samuel Neely purchased the property and held possession until March 18, 1842, when his son James Harvey Neely bought the farm. After the latter's death in 1862 Thomas G. Neely became the owner for a period of fifty one years.
